Breakfast Republic Hatches in Costa Mesa

By OCFoodies February 17, 2020 Food

The new Costa Mesa Breakfast Republic welcomes breakfast and brunch lovers. Known for their love of all things egg-related, along with twists on traditional breakfast staples and cheeky merchandise, the daytime eatery joins Irvine as the second BR Orange County location.

Breakfast Republic Costa Mesa offers plenty of signature fan favorites, like Jurassic Pork Benedict, made with cage-free poached eggs, topped with Jurassic pork bacon and gluten-free Hollandaise sauce, served over a crispy sourdough English muffin. Their Harvest Omelet, a beloved vegan menu option, is carefully crafted with mung bean egg substitute, asparagus, avocado, spinach, onion, jalapeño, and vegan sausage. Guests can also enjoy an array of hearty scrambles, along with unique French toast and pancake selections, while libation lovers can indulge in a bountiful Bloody Mary list, specialty cocktails and mimosas galore.

This new Breakfast Republic occupies a 2,532 square-foot space and 250 square-foot patio that formerly housed South Coast Pizza Parlor. The restaurant unquestionably stands out with their eye-catching, egg-themed décor, vibrant use of color and perfectly placed lighting, highlighting the contemporary, industrial ambiance.

Breakfast Republic Costa Mesa joins the renowned Breakfast Republic family, alongside Breakfast Company, Fig Tree Café, Feast & Fareway and El Jardín Cantina totaling 16 successful eateries under the Rise & Shine Hospitality Group umbrella. The archetype of Southern California's brunch culture, owner and founder, Johan Engman, has unquestionably established a lifestyle for those who appreciate superb food and drinks. And, he's truly just getting started.
